Smoke-Free Champions training

The AAP Julius B. Richmond Center is offering Smoke-Free Champions continuing medical education Feb. 25-27 in Anaheim, Calif.

The conference will offer training in brief, effective methods to eliminate children's exposure to tobacco and secondhand smoke, changing clinical systems and practices, community advocacy and other issues in tobacco control. Free registration, airfare and accommodations are provided through a grant from the Flight Attendant Medical Research Institute. The conference precedes the AAP Future of Pediatrics Conference Feb. 27 to March 1.

Participants are selected by AAP chapters and can earn up to 9 AMA PRA Category 1 Credits. Access the application at www.aap.org/richmondcenter/smokefreehomesconference.html or e-mail richmondcenter@aap.org.
