Infectious Diseases and the Inpatient: When Evidence and Experience Collide

In this innovative program, we will address several common dilemmas in pediatric inpatient care, with a focus on the process of how we make decisions. What do you do when there is no evidence to support your decision? What support do you have the evidence conflicts with the dogma of the day? Our speakers, both pediatric hospitalists and pediatric infectious disease experts, will debate these issues through the lens of existing evidence-based medicine, and when that fails, as it often can, through their experience.
