2010 AAP Award Winners

Outstanding Achievement Award
(Council on Community Pediatrics and the Section on Epidemiology)

Recognizes pediatricians who have made outstanding contributions toward advocating for children and child health in the community through the effective use of epidemiologic information.

Shannon Thyne, M.D., FAAP

Dr. Thyne is associate professor of pediatrics at University of California, San Francisco. She received her medical degree from the Brown-Dartmouth Medical Program. Her clinical, educational and research efforts are based at San Francisco General Hospital, where she serves as medical director of the Children’s Health Center that provides services to underserved children. Dr. Thyne supervises students and residents, maintains a clinical practice and conducts clinical research on childhood asthma. She helped develop the Yes We Can Urban Asthma Partnership, which contributed to improved outcomes for children in San Francisco and has been replicated at the local, regional and national levels.