Results of the AAP.org Survey
Thank you for responding to the AAP.org Survey!

Last month, we launched a campaign to obtain feedback on the redesigned AAP.org. Many of you responded and provided excellent feedback. Respondents identified the site as visually appealing and expressed supportive comments on the improvement of the site. We also heard where areas of opportunity exist. Therefore, we will spend the next several weeks refining the site features and functionality as well as using the survey comments to prioritize future enhancements.

We realize that it takes time to learn the new navigation; therefore, the next several issues of this monthly newsletter will be aimed at helping you to become more proficient with the new site. We’ve also put together a help page to answer the most common questions. Of course, if you encounter any problems with the site, please contact Customer Service at csc@aap.org.

MyAAP
The new and refreshed Member Center
One of the most exciting areas of the redesigned AAP.org is MyAAP. MyAAP is your one-stop shop for all of your membership benefits and information. When you log in to www.aap.org/MyAAP, you are taken to your own personal profile as well as to content that is only available to members of the AAP.

The following 5 slides provide an illustration on how to access and use MyAAP.

We would be interested in hearing if the slides were helpful. Please feel free to share your feedback by emailing AAPorgSupport@aap.org.
Access to MyAAP is available by logging in here.
Easy access to your AAP subscriptions. Also, renewal dates and options are available here.
